– 2021 Annual Report –

Message from the President

Dr. Liu Limin
President of CEAIE

The year 2021 marked the 40th anniversary of CEAIE. It was a year full of retrospection, anticipation as well as milestones and progress. We organized a series of celebration activities to pay tribute to our CEAIE family for their pioneering and persistent work in the past 40 years. We also awarded 40 Outstanding Contribution Partners and 10 Partners of the Year to express our sincere gratitude to them for the consistent support that we received domestic and worldwide. Despite the challenges posed by COVID-19 pandemic and all the impacts incurred in 2021, we demonstrated how much could be achieved through innovation, hard work and joint efforts of the international education community.

By the end of the year 2021, CEAIE has 1040 member institutions, more than 1000 domestic partners and over 170 global partners, running over 100 programs covering all levels of education. Generations of CEAIE leaders and staff created these programs through 4 decades of unremitting efforts with strong commitment to our mission: promoting international education exchanges and cooperation, facilitating the development of education and enhancing mutual understanding and friendship among the peoples.

We are proud to witness the growth and prosperity of a series of CEAIE flagship programs that have facilitated and encouraged educational exchanges and cooperation. A number of platforms and mechanisms have been built to foster long term and systematic exchanges. The China Annual Conference for International Education has been held for 22 consecutive years to provide a comprehensive platform for policy consultation, professional development, B2B networking and exhibition. Our engagement in China-ASEAN Education Cooperation Week and Luban Workshop Alliance has laid solid grounds for TVET exchanges and cooperation with ASEAN and African countries. Moreover, through establishing consortia, alliances, and working mechanisms, our cooperation with U.S., Canada, U.K.,

Germany, France, Central Eastern European countries, and Japan has helped foster a close, effective and resilient international education community.

Being the first Chinese non-governmental organization dedicated to international education exchange, CEAIE has kept innovation the constant theme in the past 40 years. Based on the demands of the education sector and the social development of China, new programs and activities were initiated almost each year. We also broke new grounds in the region coverage and program areas to better serve the professional development of educators and the internationalization of educational institutions. In 2021, we made breakthroughs in connections with Spain, Finland, Greece and Colombia. New programs specialized in creative culture and art such as Imagining for the Future: Walt Disney Scholarship Program and Chinese-Russian Festival of Children's Creativity were organized to encourage in-depth international interactions for teachers and students.

Another constant theme throughout CEAIE history and still gaining prominence is quality assurance and professional capacity building. We keep the consensus that quality control and professionalization are at the core of international education. We have run university and TVET college leadership capacity building projects in partnership with countries like U.S., Canada, U.K.

Celebrating 40 Years

Germany and Australia since the early days of CEAIE. More than a decade ago, we started the endeavor in cross-border education quality assurance. Throughout the years, we have conducted the accreditation of 250 universities offering Study in China programs by the end of 2021. The accreditation of Chinese-foreign joint-run schools and programs has established a framework covering universities, TVET colleges and high schools. Moreover, we published or released a series of academic reports each year to lead the progress of internationalization of the education sector in China.

As we look forward to the years to come, we want to extend our heartfelt thanks to our council, member institutions, partners and friends whose efforts and support are vital to our mission. We have been working side by side throughout the past years to make those memorable international experiences possible for so many people in need. We hope to keep this resilient community vibrant in the years of rebuilding ahead.

Gaining New Momentum for Further Development with Innovation

The 22nd China Annual Conference for International Education & Expo (CACIE 2021)

Facing the interruptions of international exchanges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic and other challenges, CACIE 2021, under the theme New Opportunities and Prospects for Building an Open and High-Quality Education System, invited experts and leaders across all sectors to share best practices and strategies, sought innovative approaches for high-quality development and solutions to global challenges, and drew a blueprint for the future of international education.

Dr. Huai Jinpeng, Minister of Education, P.R.C.

Dr. Liu Limin, President of CEAIE

Dr. Huai Jinpeng, Minister of Education of China addressed the Plenary Session of CACIE 2021 and made three propositions:

Strengthening Education Cooperation by Win-win Coexistence. Countries around the world were called upon to cooperate to tackle shared education challenges, enhance exchanges on education policies and resources, and promote the equity, efficiency and collaboration of global education development.

Promoting Education Development by Innovation and Creativity. Countries around the world were encouraged to promote education reform and innovation, strengthen the integration of talents chain, industrial chain and innovation chain, and improve the capacity for the self-development of education and the capacity for enhancing social-economic development.

Enhancing People-to-People Exchange by Mutual Learning. Countries around the world were called upon to strengthen education for international understanding and intercultural communication, build platforms to facilitate mutual learning and exchanges, and consolidate the public support for building a community with a shared future for mankind.

Dr. Liu Limin, president of CEAIE, chaired the Plenary Session. More than 450 distinguished guests and speakers shared their wisdom for high-quality development of international education in post-pandemic era, featuring Mme. Stefania Giannini, UNESCO Assistant Director-General for Education, Mme. Susan Acland-Hood, Permanent Secretary of Department for Education of U.K., Mr. Chan Chun Sing, Minister for Education of Singapore, Dr. Zhou Jianping, Member of Chinese Academy of Engineering and Chief Designer of China Manned Space Program, Mme. Jiao Yang, Chairperson of the University Council of Fudan University, Dr.

Jim McDonald, President of Royal Academy of Engineering of U.K., and Dr. Allan E. Goodman, President of Institute of International Education.

A wide variety of bilateral and multilateral sessions and activities were held successfully including a Plenary Session, 30 parallel sessions, an Education B2B session and the release of annual reports, attracting over 3200 participants from more than 60 countries and regions around the world. China Celebration of the International Day of Education

Answering the call of the resolution adopted by the General Assembly on the International Day of Education on December 3, 2018, CEAIE hosted the 2021 China Celebration of the International Day of Education on January 20, under the patronage of UNESCO and with the support of Chinese National Commission for UNESCO.

The theme of the China Celebration was Educational Equality and Sustainable Development in the Post-Pandemic Era, responding to the official theme of the International Day of Education Recover and Revitalize Education for the COVID-19 Generation. The event honored the pivotal position of education in social development, aimed to understand the current trends and issues, identified key lessons learned from the COVID-19 crisis, and shared experiences in responding to the immediate challenges in the face of education disruption. Taking what had been shared and explored in the event, we proposed long-term plans that sought to tackle the negative impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on the society, and eventually accelerated the revitalization process of education and the realization of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) proposed in 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

The event began with the welcome remarks from Dr. Liu Limin, President of CEAIE, and video messages from H.E. Ambassador Tijjani Muhammad-Bande, President of the 74th Session of the United Nations General Assembly. H.E. Ms. Stefania Giannini, UNESCO Assistant Director-General for Education inserted in her video speech the overarching principles and goals of the celebration of the International Day of Education. H.E. Mr. Tian Xuejun, Chinese Vice Minister of Education and the Chairperson of the Chinese National Commission for UNESCO delivered the keynote speech, in which he introduced China's practices in forwarding SDGs, educational achievements, as well as current policies and measures in restoring education during the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic. Around 1,000 provincial government officials, representatives from international organizations, Chinese teachers and students participated in the event.

Diplomats from 13 embassies in China and representatives from 3 international organizations including UNESCO Beijing Office attended the event. More than 20 media outlets covered the event. The event was also featured on UNESCO's official web page and UNESCO's Chinese official Twitter page.

Quality Assurance

Leading the International Education Sector

The year 2021 witnessed the successful completion of the initial accreditation of 20 universities in Higher General Education Accreditation for International Students in China (HGEAIS) program, among which Shanghai Jiao Tong University and Renmin University of China earned the accreditation for the first time for 8-year and 6-year validity respectively. CEAIE initiated re-accreditation among the first two batches of HGEAIS pilot universities. The participation of 63 accredited universities marked that HGEAIS program had entered a new cycle. 22 universities applied for initial HGEAIS program in 2021. Newly developed tools were implemented throughout the self-assessment phase, ensuring more matched and benchmarked information could be submitted by universities against accreditation standards.

The Training on Higher Education for International Students in China

Higher Vocational Education Accreditation for International Students in China (HVEAIS) program and Basic Medical Education (in English Medium) Accreditation for International Students in China (BMEAIS) program moved forward steadily. The first batch of applicant colleges and universities for both programs completed training and have been conducting the self-assessment. BMEAIS was officially launched to facilitate Chinese MOE to carry out dynamic and standardized management on universities approved to provide basic medical education (in English Medium) program for international students in China. Among those universities, nearly half of them have applied for joining BMEAIS.

The Higher Education Evaluation for International Students in China (HEEIS) program was efficiently developed in 2021 and served 11 universities and colleges in Yunnan Province. Based on the HGEAIS and HVEAIS, HEEIS further expanded the scope of CEAIE's service to assure quality of study in China. CEAIE collaborated with local EAIEs to jointly promote and carry out accreditation programs. The database of accreditation experts for HEAIS was further expanded to nearly 600 people. To improve the bilingual education in China, Certificate for Bilingual Teachers Competency was launched officially in 2021, open to 7 colleges and 8 international educational institutions with a total of 6,020 exam positions.
